SECOND SATURDAY CONCERT

November 12, 2016 7:30 P.M.

Stephanie Bettman and Luke Halpin

Stephanie and Luke have been busy since they knocked us out with their first Second Saturday show in March, 2012. A move to Colorado, two more CDs, appearances at virtually all the major folk and acoustic music festivals – to name a few. Both their CDs reached the top 10 on the National Folk DJ chart, they have been winners in more than one major West Coast acoustic music competition.

Stephanie's lyrics are infused with wit and wisdom, poetry and insight. Vocally she draws comparison to the soaring soprano of Joan Baez and the plaintive emotion of Emmylou Harris. Meanwhile, her fiddling, which combines elements of bluegrass and jazz, is filled with influences from such masters as Stephane Grappelli, Byron Berline and Johnny Gimble. A former actress and trapeze artist, she is at ease in front of an audience and creates intimacy with her crowd no matter the size.

Luke is a renowned multi-instrumentalist. A master of the guitar and the mandolin, impressive on fiddle, banjo, and adept at nearly anything he picks up. Luke draws inspiration from the likes of Sam Bush, Mark O'Connor and Tony Rice and holds his own in comparison. A dynamic and sensitive vocalist himself, the harmony blend he and Stephanie achieve is chilling and at times simply transcendent. He has an impressive performance resumé, having shared the stage with the likes of Merle Haggard, Lone Star and The Steve Miller Band. His quirky sense of humor is a perfect foil to Stephanie's dry witty presence.

Second Saturday Concert is presented by the Houston Folklore and Music Society, a nonprofit organization dedicated to the preservation of folklore and acoustic music. Homemade refreshments are available. Tickets are sold at the door - adults $15, senior citizens (65) $11, and children under 12 free with adults. Concerts are held the second Saturdays of each month in the West University Community Center at 6104 Auden (intersection of Auden. and Rice Blvd.) Phone Paul Cooper at 713-204-1207 (cell) for more concert information. LAST MONTH'S HAPPENINGS

 Bob Livingston performed at the Second Saturday Concert on November 12 with his timeless songs and stories. His performance offered a great deal of Texas music history (and, maybe, some myths), as well as his more recent music.

 Bob and Sue Lahmeyer hosted our Pickin' Party on Sunday, November 23. Our musicians and music lovers gathered in Bob and Sue's welcoming rural home near Cut-And-Shoot, Texas to eat, pick and be merry on a beautiful autumn afternoon. The unusual instrument in the circle was Paul Cooper's balalaika, a stringed instrument traditional to Russia. After the song circle, most stayed a while and gathered around the fire pit outside, enjoying the beautiful autumn early evening.

 Several HFMS Board members performed at the Fort Bend County Public Library on Saturday, October 29. Carl Brainerd, Gayle Fallon, Carolyn Davis and Paul Cooper performed a variety of original, traditional and cover-songs to an enthusiastic audience, some of which became HFMS members at the event! More details (and photos) will be included in next month's Cotton Patch Rag.

DID YOU KNOW...

John A. Lomax, Jr., one of the principal founders of the Houston Folklore and Music Society, gave his first public performance of folk songs at the Rice Institute in 1950.

In 1968, Lightnin' Hopkins played at the Music Hall downtown. Sharing the stage with him that night were Townes Van Zandt, Guy Clark, and other Houston folksingers. The cost of a balcony seat was $1. Yes, the good old days – Lightnin', Townes and Guy Clark for a buck.

I gleaned these bits while reading back issues of the Cotton Patch Rag from the 1960's. The news part of this story is that I was reading them on the first floor of the Fondren Library at Rice, where the Woodson Research Center is located. After lengthy discussion of the best home for our archive of back issues of the Rag (they had resided at Chris Hartman's house for decades), our Board of Directors made the decision to donate them to the Houston Folk Music Archive at the Woodson. There they will be professionally archived, stored in a climate-controlled environment, and available to any researcher or enthusiast who wants to see them.

The Houston Folk Music Archive is a relatively new project, focusing on Houston singer-songwriters from the 1960s to the 1980s. They have a Don Sanders Collection, a Richard Dobson Collection and a wealth of other documents about this phase of Houston's musical history, including about 30 years of back issues of Sing Out magazine, also donated by our Society.

Norie Guthrie, Archivist Librarian for Special Collections at the Woodson, accepted our donation, and spoke to the crowd at our November Second Monday concert about the collection and the kinds of items in which they are interested. If you have recordings, publicity materials, articles or other documents relating to the time of the great urban folk scare in Houston, you might want to look into donating them to the collection. Contact Norie Guthrie at slg4@rice.edu. You can follow news relating to the Houston Folk Music Archive at www.facebook.com/houstonfolkmusicarchive. We are pleased and proud to have this relationship with the Woodson, and to have it acknowledged that, while we were picking and grinning and scratching our itch for this kind of music, we were also a part of history.

BLUES AMERICA: "BRIGHT LIGHTS AND BIG CITIES"

After World War II, the mechanization of cotton farming took hold in the south. This caused the black workers who were making 50 cents a day to go north for opportunity. By train they went to Chicago, Detroit and Memphis where they could earn 50 cents an hour. With this migration, came the bluesmen the likes of Elmo James, Muddy Waters, and Howlin' Wolf. They brought their music into the 'juke joints', establishments which offered drinking, music, dancing, and gambling. These bluesmen needed to now use electric guitars and amplifiers. The sounds coming out of these guitars gave them more elements to blend into their music. Also, the amplified harmonica emerged at this time. In work songs and spirituals 'call and response' is often used in the singing. In blues, it is the bluesman who calls, and the guitar and harmonica who respond. Leonard Chess was a tavern owner at this time, and he saw how many coins were being put in the juke boxes. It occurred to him that records would be a good investment. Chess recorded Muddy Waters singing "Can't Be Satisfied", and went on to record many other prolific artist of this era. Chess formed an association with Sam Phillips who owned Sun Studios in Memphis, and together they promoted the likes of John Lee Hooker and Howlin' Wolf. So the electrified blues was establishing a home in these three cities. What happened next was a cross cultural exchange. Elvis Presley arrives at Sun Studios in 1954 and records "That's Alright Mama". He is the white fellow that sings with the passion of the black artist. Phillips knew this young man was very marketable. Meanwhile, Chuck Berry is wanting to record "Ida Red" at Chess records. They like his sound, but not the name of the song. Chuck Berry is watching a secretary touch up her makeup with a Maybelline product and you know the rest of the story. When the recording of Maybelline took off on the charts, the public did not realize that Chuck Berry was a black artist. Thus with Presley and Berry a bridge to two cultures was opened and the blues wrote its second chapter.

FEATURED SONG - - THAT'S MY TOY

Steve Fisher won the Kerrville Folk Festival NewFolk Songwriting Competition in 1990 with this apparently simple, yet deceptively profound song. Steve, one of Texas' best kept musical secrets, is a native of Longview, Texas. He is a keen observer of human behavior who then creates a beautiful song to portray those he observes—their actions, their interactions and their values. One of Steve's early songs, That's My Toy has been recorded by David LaMotte and the latest rendition of The Limelighters, as well as Steve, himself. Steve will be performing November 5 at Carolyn's Cottonwood Concerts.

THAT'S MY TOY

by Steve Fisher

G D C
That's my toy you can't have it
G D C D7
That's my ball you can look, but you can't play
G D C D7
This is my candy and I'm not gonna share any of it
C D7 G
If you know what's good for you, you'll stay out of my way

That's my bike, you can't ride it

That's my chair, you can't sit there
That's my dog, you can't pet him
Oh go tell your mama, see if I care

These are my friends, we don't like you
This is our clubhouse, and our playground
If you talk to us, we won't listen
'cause we don't like you hangin' around

That's my parking place, I was here first
This is my place in line, you can't cut in
That's my woman, keep your eyes off of her
This is my land, stay on your side of the fence

This is our country, we don't want you here
This is our land, we mean to keep it for our own
This is our freedom, we don't want to share it
You can pack your dreams, you can go back home

This is my God, you don't know Him
He's saving a place up in heaven just for me
You won't go there, my Bible tells me
You won't go there, just wait and see

That's my toy you can't have it
That's my ball you can look, but you can't play
This is my candy and I'm not gonna share any of it
If you know what's good for you, you'll stay out of my way
